A Tribute

BOOKER T. WASHINGTON

As we go to press, our hearts are filled with sadness by the announcement of the retirement of our principal, B. T. Washington.

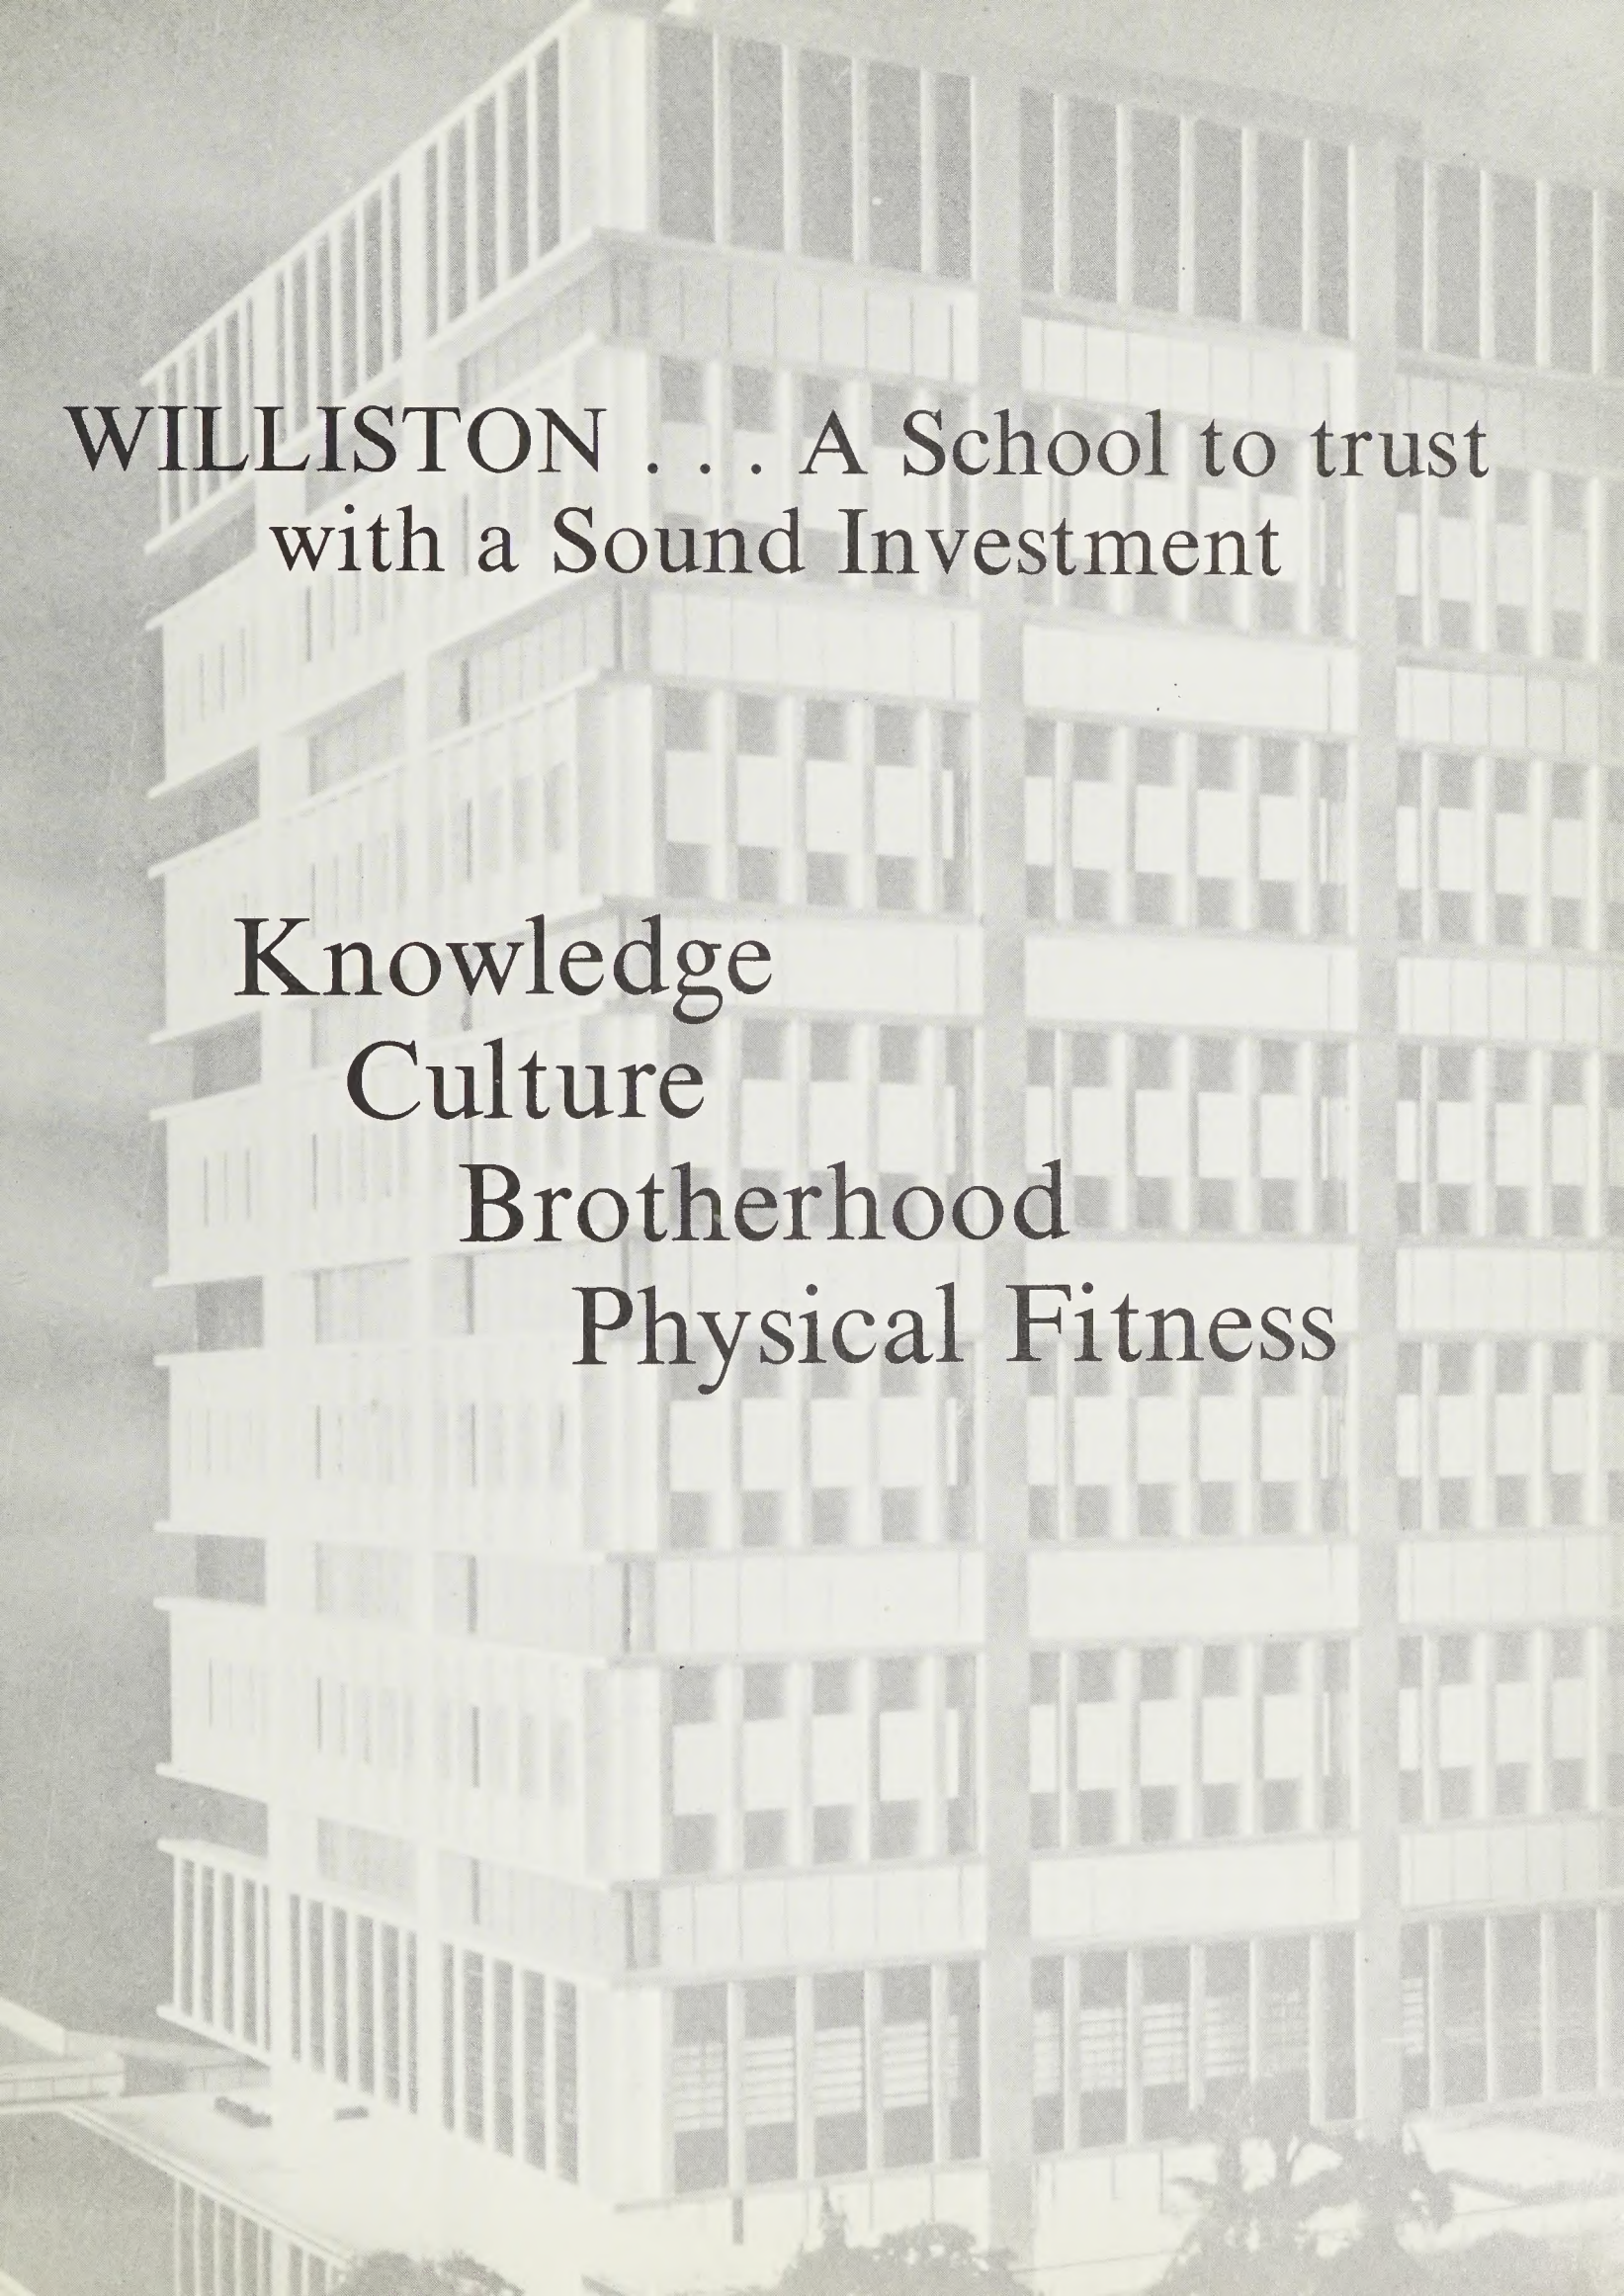

Born and educated in the schools of Alabama, Booker T. Washington has always believed in education as an investment. He graduated from Lincoln University in Pennsylvania and began teaching biology in New Hanover County in 1929. He continued his education and received the M.A. degree from the University of Pennsylvania.

As principal of Gregory Elementary School, he proved his administrative ability and was subsequently made principal of Williston Senior High School upon completion of the new plant in 1953.

Academic excellence was Mr. Washington's goal at all times. He was sincere in his devotion to his work, the student body, and the general welfare of the staff. No problem was too large, no problem was too small for his attention. Every student was special to him. He gave each one his undivided attention.

Williston has lost a true friend in the retirement of its principal. He will be missed by faculty and students.

Truly, education has lost one its greatest assets!

Knowledge

Definite investments have been made through knowledge and education.

The true purpose of education is to cherish and unfold the seed of immortality already sown within us; to develop, to their fullest extent, the capacities of every kind.

It is knowledge which gives a man a clear, conscious view of his own opinions and judgements, a truth in developing them, and eloquence in expressing them. It prepares him to fill any post with credit, and to master any subject with facility.

Through active participation in classwork, athletics, clubs and organizations, each student has gained valuable knowledge and experience that has enabled him to develop in a fourfold manner--mentally, physically, socially, and spiritually.

So, then to every man his chance-- to every man regardless of his birth, his shining, golden opportunity-- to every man, the right to live, to work to be himself, and to become whatever thing his manhood and his vision can combine to make him--this seeker is the promise of America.

Thomas Wolfe

Culture

The term “culture” refers to the products of high civilization—such as literature, art, and philosophy—its frequent use to describe highly educated persons. This existence or possession of culture distinguishes between the educated and the uneducated.

There exists in America a youth culture which can be distinguished from the adult culture. An analysis of this distinguishing characteristic does not imply that culture cannot be absorbed by both.

Instilled in each student is a great desire to be successful in his life’s work. Even though he may occasionally stray from his objective, he is continually absorbing the culture of past civilizations and profiting from their successes and failures.

Through the many cultural programs and activities presented, each of us has made sound investments and developed keen interests in drama, music, art, and other forms of cultural enjoyment. From these we gain valuable insight of the cultural world.

“If any country in the world could be called the most fortunate recipient of cultural and technical assistance from abroad, America is that country—only at the risk of our souls can we forget that the reason we can be givers to the world now is that we have been takers in the past.”

Datus C. Smith, Jr.

Brotherhood

“We must live together as brothers or perish together as fools.”

These words are quoted from the late Dr. Martin Luther King, when he accepted the Nobel Peace Prize in 1964 on behalf of “all men who love peace and brotherhood.” If there was ever a man who was sincerely devoted to the brotherhood of mankind, Dr. King was that man. His belief was that with faith, we will be able to transform the discords of our nation into a beautiful symphony of brotherhood.

From Dr. King we take increased devotion to live together in harmony, peace and unity at Williston. Here is an association of students united in a common interest—brotherhood, a bond that ties us together as brothers in this institution of learning. We are able to work together, pray together, and learn together because of our great faith in each other.

In our community is a Youth Council Organization which consists of representatives from the three high schools. Through the many activities of this organization, brotherhood is promoted.

Displayed socially, as well as educationally, brotherhood has become vital to all of us and has helped us to invest in friendship through unity and harmony. Only through these things can we live together as brothers forever.

Physical Fitness

“The fitness of our youth is the strength of our nation.”

Physical fitness is the ability to demonstrate vigorous physical action. It includes endurance, power, strength, and agility. A student who is physically fit has the ability to combine these traits into smooth, effective action both at work and in play.

Each student develops mentally, morally, and physically through physical fitness. The athletic program is designed to present every student with an opportunity to participate in some physical activity.

Through physical fitness, each student has had the opportunity to make sound investments in good health and sportsmanship.

On top of the radiator, there are several potted plants, including a large fern on the left and a smaller plant in a dark pot in the center. The wall behind the radiator is light-colored and has a light switch and a framed picture or mirror. The overall scene is slightly out of focus, with the text overlaid on the right side.

ADMINISTRATION

ADMINISTRATION

One of the most important parts of the school system is the administration. This is the foundation on which the school is built and the key to the organization of the school and its student.

Supervising the over-all situation is Mr. B. T. Washington, the principal. It is his duty to see that the school is functioning properly and that any emergencies which might arise are handled quickly and ably. The daily problems and tasks to be met are numerous; there are notes to send, questions to answer, students to interview, parents to call, as well as much correspondence to answer and to write; all part of the busy day. The principal of Williston Senior High is indeed the executive director.

Williston's energetic and capable assistant principal; handles numerous responsibilities. His desk is the "clearing house" for all finances of the school and he supervises the activity program. He helps promote good student-administration relationships.

A former mathematics and science teacher, Mr. Harris is the "jack of all trades" to faculty members and students. He is a tireless and unselfish worker for the betterment of the school. His many talents include a flair for photography that places him in an exceptional category.

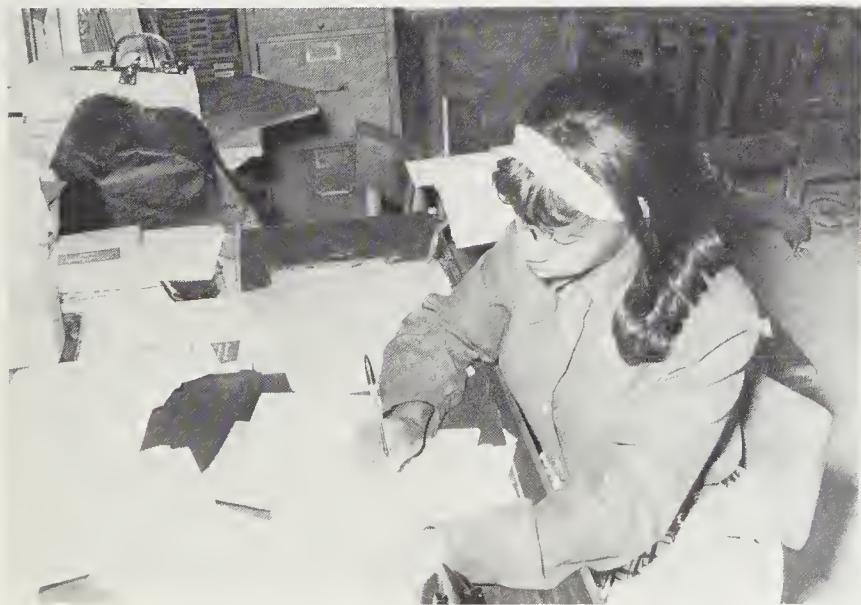

OFFICE STAFF

Mrs. Marjorie H. Reid

Providing a backbone for the operation of the school, Williston's experienced secretaries work many long hours at the several clerical tasks assigned to them. Business students enrolled ICT are given workpaid jobs in the office to further increase their knowledge of office skills and office machines.

ART . . . A VALUABLE DIVIDEND

Mrs. Elise Bridger, Art Instructor

Art one, two, and three are offered to the students. Students in art courses share their talents with students, teachers, and the community. Designs, colors, freehand drawing, lettering, sculpture, graphics, clay modeling, and painting are some of the many activities in which the students participate.

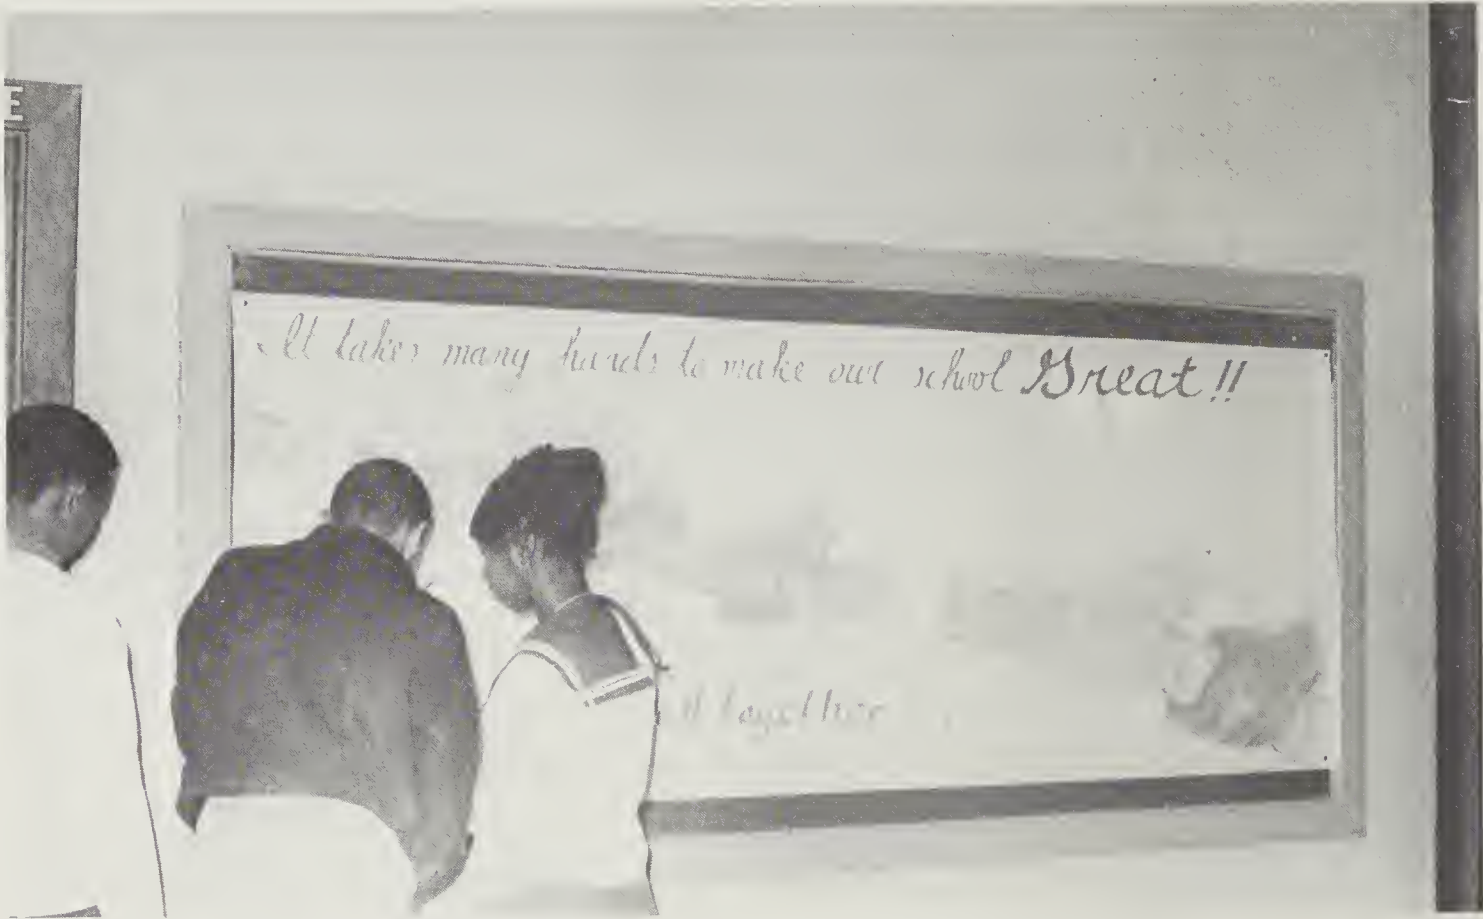

Art history and appreciation are stressed to give students a better understanding of the background and importance of this subject.

Students with special abilities are encouraged to further develop their talents and perhaps pursue commercial art or other fields.

At a recent art show in Greenfield Gardens, several works by Williston students were chosen for the Wilmington College Art Show. Persons visiting the exhibit were high in their praises of our student's work. Mrs. Bridger has done a tremendous job in developing the artistic ability of the students.

Seniors who have shown outstanding ability in art are: Betty Pearson, Robert Williams, Dorothy Riley, Elizabeth Anderson, Cora Wilson, Emanuel Toney, and Willie Rhames.

BUSINESS EDUCATION . . .

INVESTING IN THE FUTURE

There is increasing attention given to business courses in high school. The leading courses are bookkeeping, shorthand, typewriting, business arithmetic, basic business, and office practice.

Basic Business introduces the student to the activities of business enterprise. Topics covered include: the business world, budgeting, record-keeping, buying and selling, travel services, and the working of a business practice set.

Shorthand covers the fundamentals of Gregg Simplified Shorthand. It develops fluency in reading shorthand plate materials rapidly and accurately. Emphasis is placed on writing and transcribing a meaningful copy.

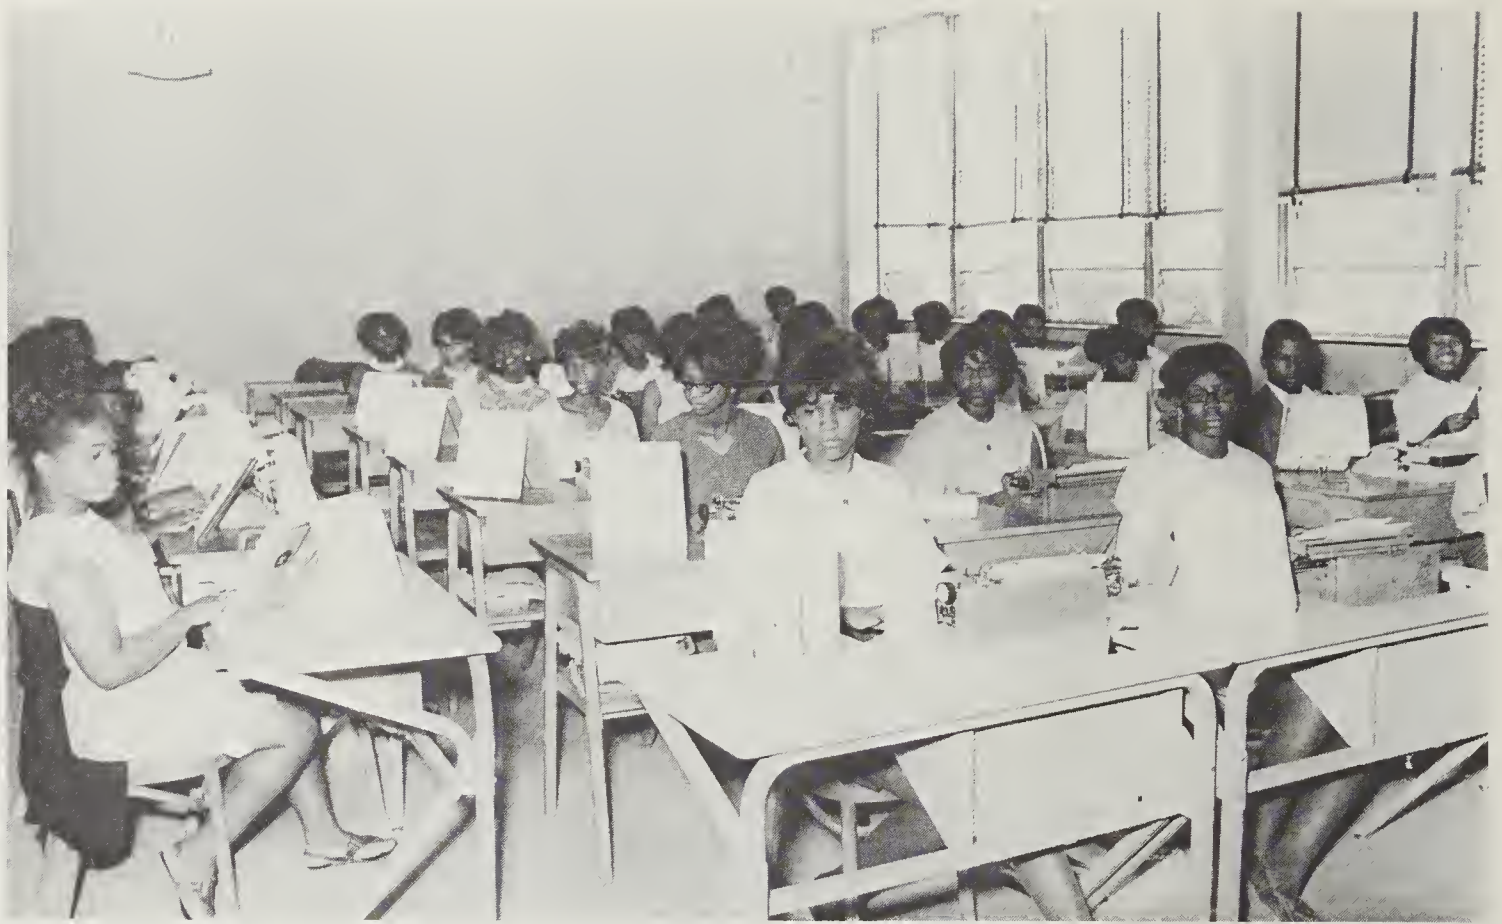

Typing one and two train students for secretarial or stenographic positions. Emphasis is placed on building skill and competence in using the typewriter for personal and vocational use. Touch typewriting is developed through class and individual drills. Special attention is given to typewriting care, developing speed and accuracy, letter styles, simple tabulation, centering, rough drafts, and manuscripts.

Bookkeeping covers the principles of record-keeping for small business concerns, analyzing transaction, journalizing, posting, and preparing financial reports and payroll records. A workbook and practice set are used to complement the course.

EXPERIENCE TODAY PROVIDES SECURITY FOR TOMORROW

In Distributive Education and Industrial Co-operative Training, the students spend a portion of the school day in regular classes; the other portion they spend working at a local business. The students earn a small salary, get credit from the school, and achieve the "experience necessary" qualification of many jobs. The students enrolled in this program receive valuable work experience in their chosen occupation while pursuing high school education. The classroom study is divided into the following major units: School and Business Relationships, Sales Development, Business Communication, and Organization for Distribution. A minimum of fifteen hours weekly is required on-the-job training for which an hourly wage is paid by the employer of the student-trainee.

This program is designed to provide the students security for tomorrow's living.

ENGLISH . . . A SAFE DEPOSIT

FOR THE FUTURE

The first mark of the educated man or woman is his use of English. Our efficiency in any walk of life will be hindered in a hundred ways by slipshod sentences, stumbling speech, and inability to find the right words to express our meaning.

English Two, Three, Four are mandatory for all students. Through these years of English, students can excel their skills in speaking, composing, memorizing, diagraming and punctuating sentences.

English Two provides material for a broader appreciation of literature will include selections from the classics as well as those from current writings, which are arranged by types—short story, poetry, nonfiction, and drama. Emphasis is also placed on spelling, pronunciation, and vocabulary improvement.

English Three includes the development of American literature and a study of the growth of modern American literature and a study of the growth of America through its writers and their contributions. The emphasis in oral and written composition is on the development of a well-organized paragraph, transitional devices in sentences and paragraphs.

English Four includes a review in the fundamentals of grammar and composition for those students needing it. This course gives practice in creative expression, letters of application, social correspondence, precis, critical analysis, and a source theme.

The literature includes a survey of our English heritage as reflected in the writing of great authors from Anglo Saxon to the present day.

FOREIGN LANGUAGE . . .

Both ancient and modern languages are included in the school curriculum. Latin is the sole representative of the ancient languages; French and Spanish are the modern languages.

As the nations of the world draw closer to each other because of modern transportation and scientific research, it becomes necessary that a great number of students make these courses a part of their curriculum so that they may become more enlightened Americans. The study of foreign language has helped the students expand their knowledge of foreign countries—their geography, history, social organization, literature and culture.

Driver Education Training

One of the most popular courses at Williston Senior High School is driver training taught by Coach E. A. Corbin, and Sponsored by the state of North Carolina. The course consisted of 30 hours of classroom study and six hours of driving for each student.

The course began with a study of the automobile itself and other important safety rules. The much anticipated driving period taught students driving technique, smooth starting and stopping, parking, turning, and driving on busy highways. After passing the state test, the student received the coveted license.

MATHEMATICS . . . CALCULATING DIVIDENDS FOR THE FUTURE

All of the mathematical terms have a special meaning for the students who enrolled in a mathematics class. Students struggled diligently through algebra, geometry, and general math, but only the most industrious tackled the mathematical unknowns of advanced algebra and advanced math.

Consumer Mathematics consists of a review of basic mathematical skills with special emphasis on practical application, common and decimal fractions, percentages, budgeting and taxes.

Algebra One and Two covers equations, inequalities, graphs, exponents and roots, system of equations, complex numbers, and word problems.

Geometry is normally required for college admission. It covers parallelism, congruence of line segments, angles and figures, ratio and proportion, and area and volume relationship.

Advanced Mathematics includes determinants permutations and combinations, probability, the binomial theorem, mathematical and induction.

MUSIC . . . DEPOSIT TODAY

Music Theory is designed for students desiring a broader knowledge of music. Elementary background in music fundamentals is a prerequisite to this course and the student must secure the approval of the instructor before signing up.

Music may be a study that prepares us for leisure or it may prepare us for a vocation as a music teacher or a professional musician. In accepting the purpose of educating us for leisure, the school has been obliged to consider music as a very important part of the program.

The student may take Consumer Music which is designed to give all students a general understanding of music. This course includes a study of the fundamentals of music, the musical instruments and the highlights of music history.

Introductory Chorus is a training chorus for Sophomore boys and girls who have had sufficient background in music for participation in the performing groups.

Chorus is a secondary performing group as well as serving as a training class leading to the advanced chorus.

Advanced Chorus is the major performing vocal music group. Voice quality and ability to read music or to follow a part are of prime importance for entrance into groups.

The Williston Band, which functions as a marching band, a dance band, and a concert band is vital to the various activities of the school.

The Band class meets five days a week at a regular class period plus extra class drill three periods a week when necessary. This course is open to the most advanced students by audition and approval of the band director. The work of the band includes instruction in both marching and concert music.

The Williston Glee Club received an A rating at the district music festival held at the Williston Junior High School.

The Williston Band performed at many occasions during the year in Wilmington and in the nearby cities.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION . . . SAVE NOW

The purpose of our physical education department is to develop each student physically through physical activities and muscular exercises. This program is designed to present every student with an opportunity to participate in some physical activity.

In this course, pupils participate in activities that provide an opportunity for the development of self-control, self-confidence, and self respect. Emphasis is placed on getting along with others and living up to the rules of the game. Students experience both success and failure in the playing of games.

Vigorous activity adds to general efficiency; it promotes health through diversion and relaxation. Our physical education program provides for physical exercise which promotes good health and helps students gain the poise and confidence needed for adult living. It proves that a good mind deserves a healthy body. So prepare now for a healthy future.

Williston offers physical Education one and two to the students.

SCIENCE . . . A WISE INVESTMENT WITH REWARDING DIVIDENDS

We do not study science because it is expected that we will become scientists, although some of us will. We study it so that no matter what line of work we follow, we will become the users of the results of science. The digestion of food, the burning of wood, the boiling of water, the rusting of iron, the growth of plants, the control of insects—these are just a few of the hundreds of ways in which we bump up against the world of science.

Biology, Physical Science, Chemistry, Advanced Biology and Physics are offered to the students.

Sophomores who did not complete Biology at the ninth grade level are required to take this subject. This course involves a scientific study of living things and includes an investigation of their structure, interdependence and economic importance. Special emphasis is placed on the structure and functions of the human body.

Physical Science stresses applications rather than theory, and deals with modern everyday problems. It is not intended to replace Physics or Chemistry, but it is designed for those students who are interested in science and are not planning to attend college.

Physics classes are shown experimenting collision, and gravitational forces and the forces exerted by mercury.

Chemistry deals with the structure and reaction of a wide variety of matter. The atmosphere, weights and measures, the states of matter, colloids, and carbon compounds are included.

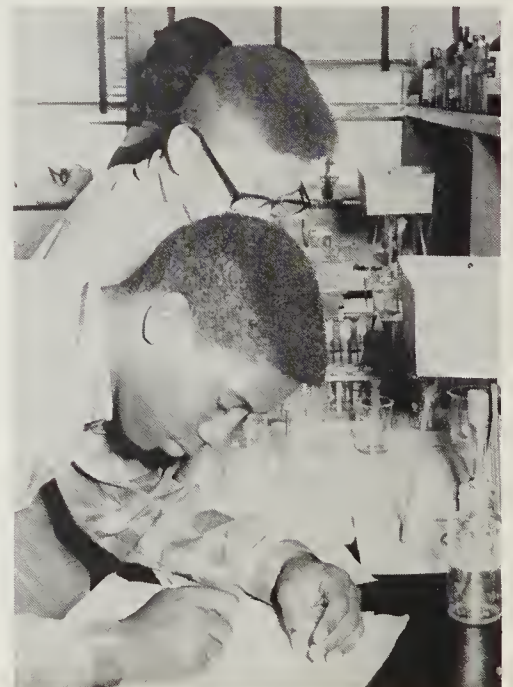

Advanced Biology deals with the origin of life, the study of cells and tissues, heredity, bacteriology, embryology, evolution and the anatomy of the cat are some of the major topics of this course.

Physics is a quantitative study of the generally recognized areas of Physics. Topics studied include measurement of work, energy, forces and motion, current and static electricity, magnetism, and the uses of atoms.

With the help of capable instructors, this enables us to understand better the world of science. Science, of course, is an important investment with many valuable dividends.

YOUR PROFITS INCREASE GREATER THROUGH KNOWLEDGE IN SOCIAL STUDIES

During this school year, students in the Social Studies Department have been concerned with history's first feeble beginning to our present day situation in Viet Nam.

World History is a survey of man's historical background. The major civilizations and nations are studied in order to show how they developed, what factors were responsible for their rise and fall, and what were their lasting contributions to the world.

United States History is required of all students for graduation. This course aims to develop a better understanding of the major events and movements which have taken place in the making of our nation. The study of United States History begins with a review of the European events leading up to the discovery of America, the beginning of the colonial period and traces the history of the United States through the present time.

Government is also mandatory of all students for graduation. This course includes a study of national, state, and local governments. National and international problems of social, political, and economic nature are discussed. Current affairs are stressed and correlated with textual material.

Sociology is a course designed to help the students see himself as a social being in a complex society made up of various social groups. The effects of these groups on individuals are stressed. Our culture and its effects on us are studied. The various institutions are studied, the relationship of one institution to another is emphasized, and the needs which institutions fill are stressed. Emphasis is placed on character development, the social graces, and good manners.

Economics is a study of the material wants and needs of man and his efforts to meet and fulfill these wants and needs through production, distribution, exchange and consumption of goods and services. Economics help to explain the operation of our modern economic institutions and to familiarize the students with some of our present day economic problems. This course is especially recommended for those students who plan to go into selling, buying, or in business for themselves.

Humanities covers the development of culture in all its aspects. The student will understand and interpret cultural development through history, philosophy, literature, art, and music.

The study of social studies helps us to find our places as capable and responsible citizens.

A wise investment in social studies today, can bring profitable gains tomorrow.

HOME ECONOMICS . . . DEPOSIT NOW FOR SECURITY IN HOMEMAKING

Home economics prepares young ladies to become successful homemakers. This department helps to mold our girls into young ladies who will be prepared for the future.

Home economics one includes good grooming, personal and social development, selection and care of the wardrobe and the planning and preparation of breakfasts, and simple luncheons.

Home economics two includes the serving of luncheons and dinners, problems of pre-school child care, and care of illness in the family.

Home economics three includes infant development and aspects of parenthood, family clothing, management of family resources, and preparation for marriage.

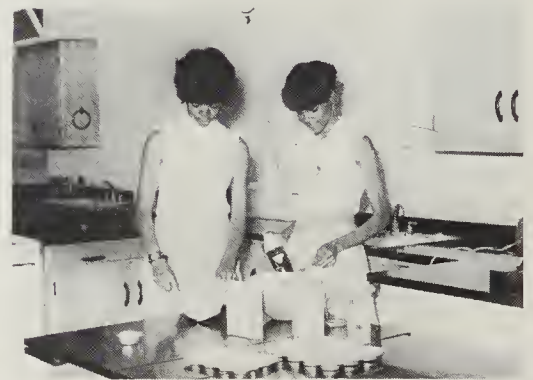

Child care includes instruction for occupational competency as a child care aide. Observation of the pre-school child in nursery school is included as part of the course.

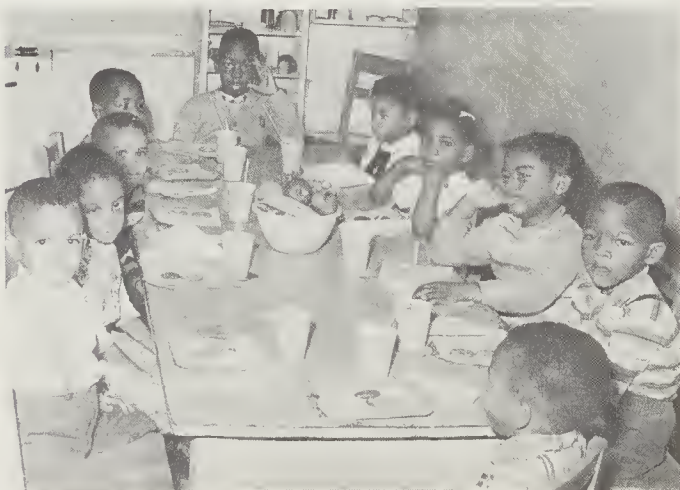

Home Economics students participate in many activities, including care of the nursery.

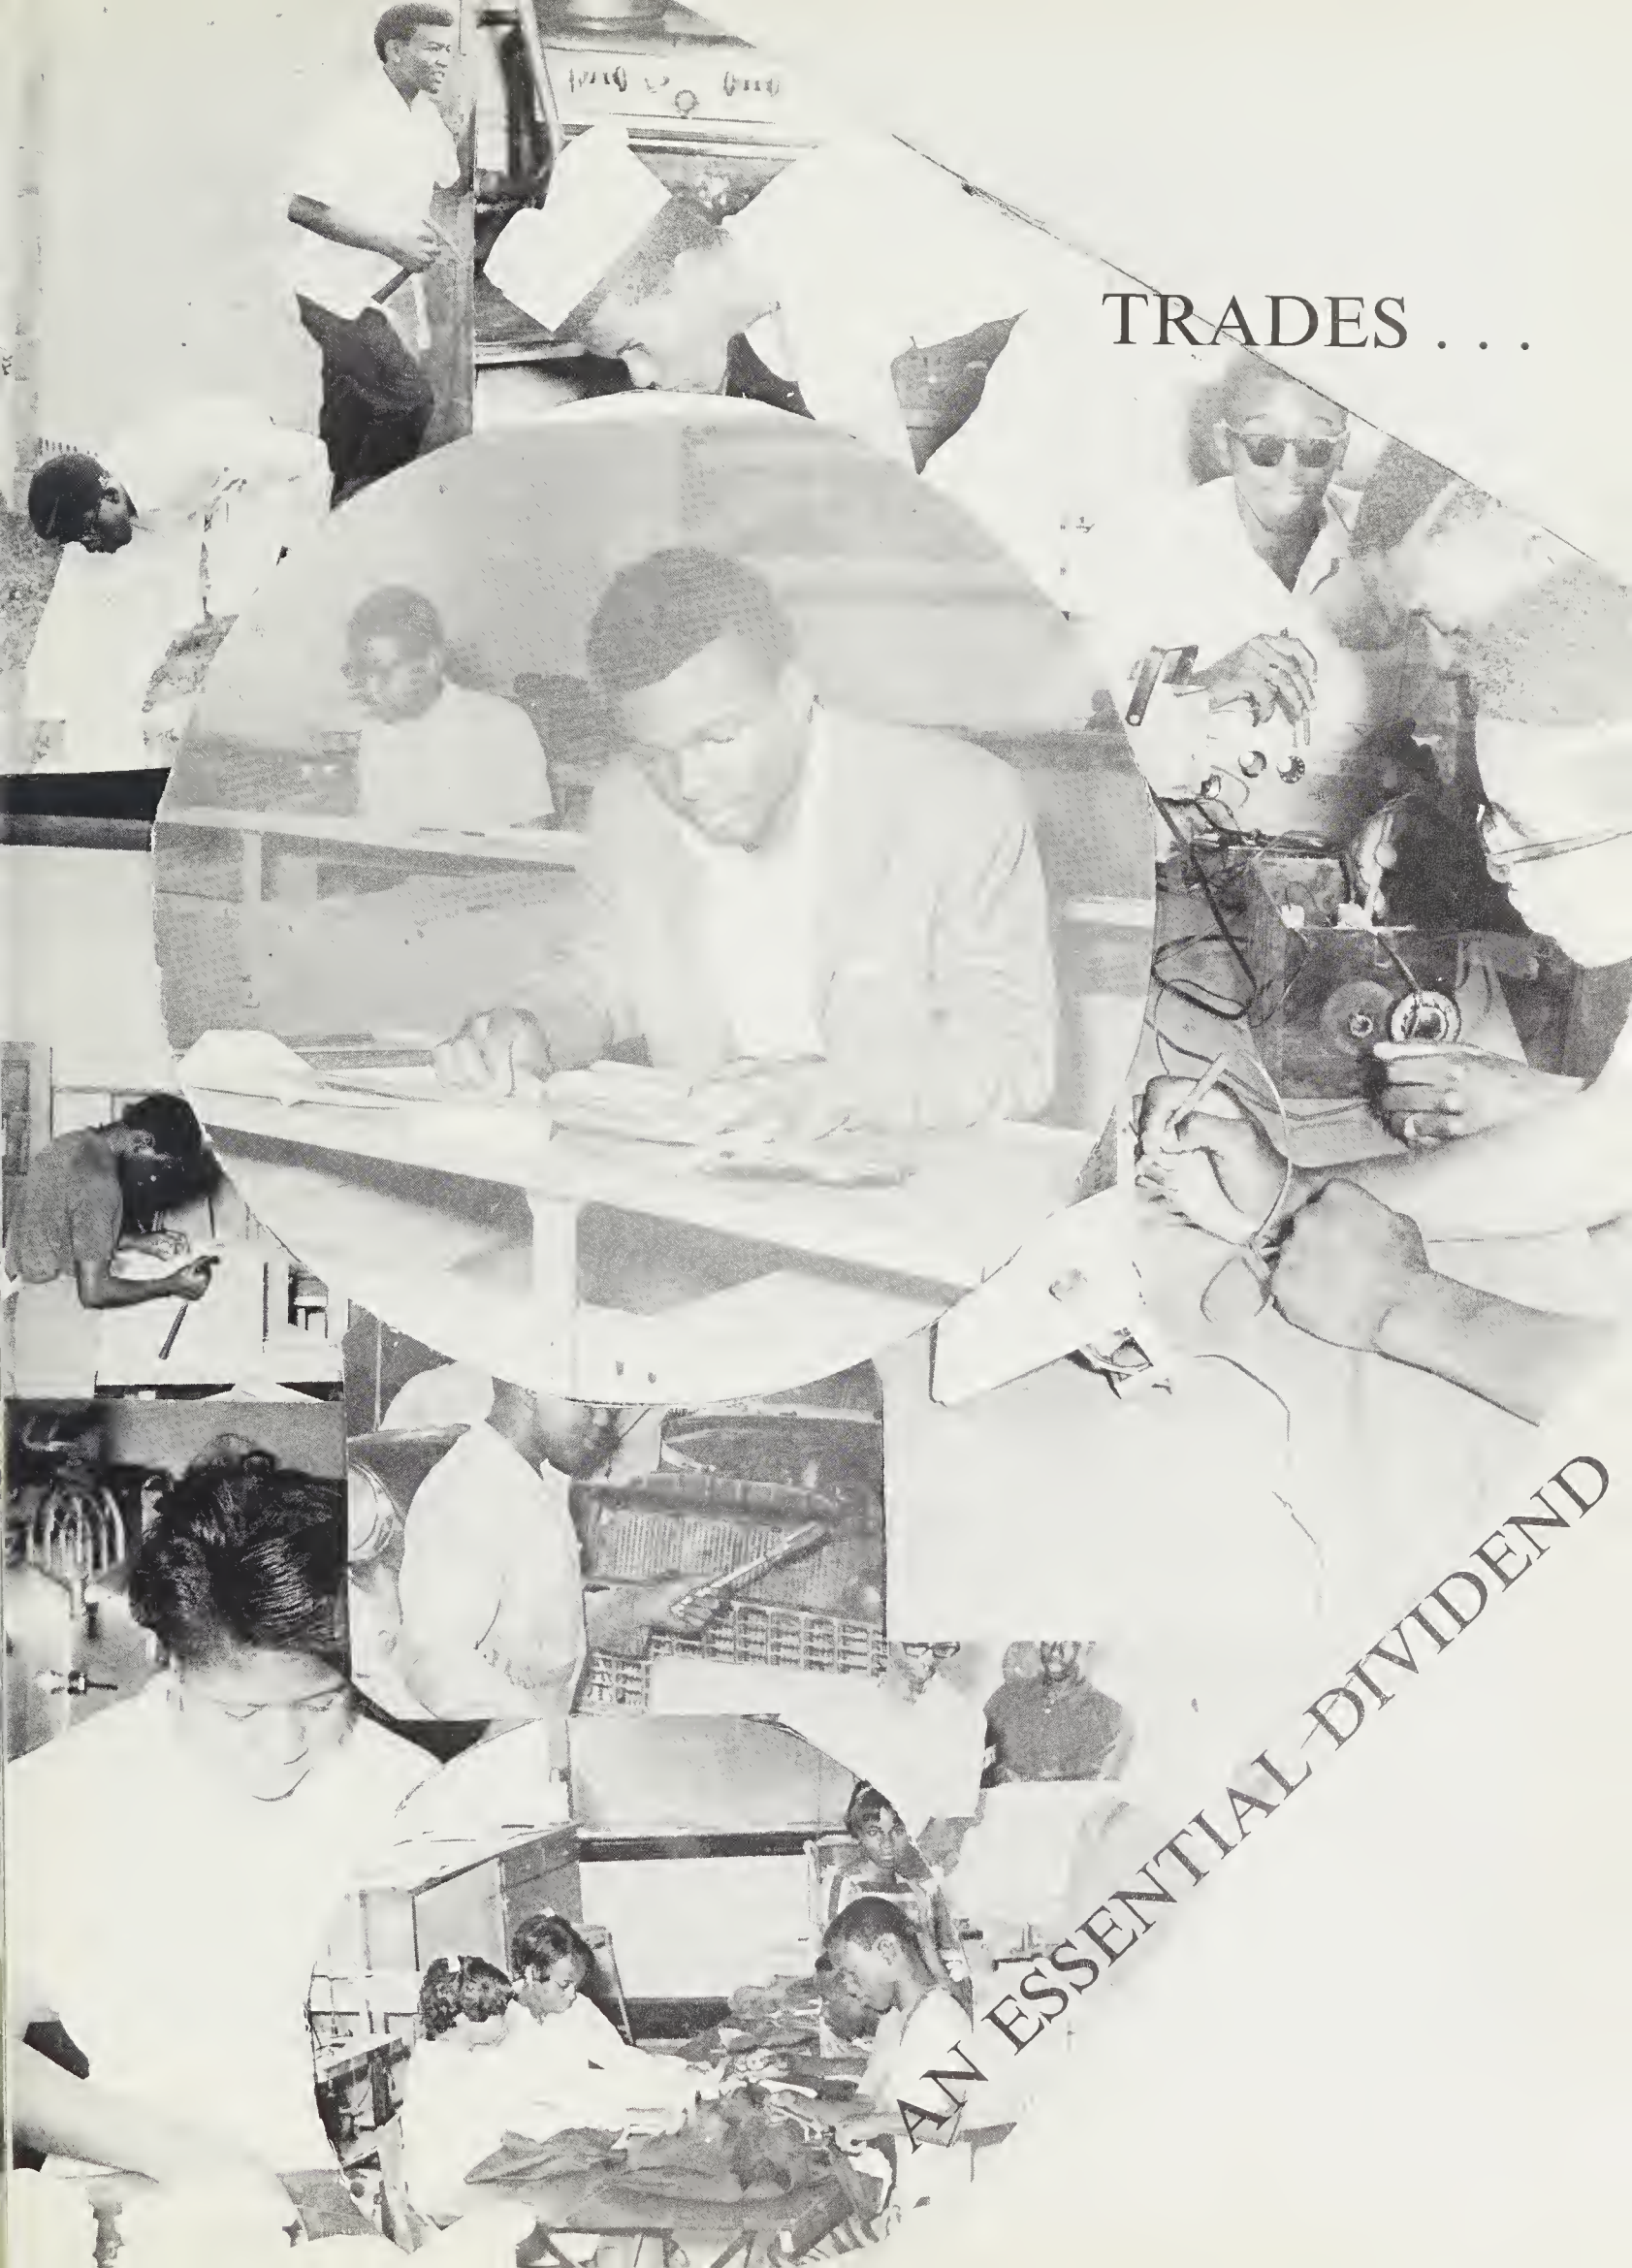

Home Economics Students are concerned with the knowledge, skills, and attitudes so essential for all girls as they prepare for their future roles in family living.

Trained industrialists play a significant role along the paths of the world today. What would our world be like today without carpenters, electricians, and brick layers.

The Trade Department at Williston Senior High School provides practical and technical training for a great number of our students who are technically inclined. We have eight individual trade courses. They are industrial cooperative training, distributive education, introduction to vocations, bricklaying, commercial cooking, tailoring, auto mechanics, electricity and drafting.

Each class in the department offers a sequential course so that learning processes are continuous both theoretically and practically.

THE LIBRARY . . . A BANK OF KNOWLEDGE

Mrs. B. B. Todd, Librarian

The library of Williston Senior High School proved to be an important aid to the pupils again this year. The wide variety of books served as references for the pupils' term papers, book reports, and other research assignments. The library was also used as a place of study. It was open to pupils before and after school, during lunch periods, and each class period of the day.

Teachers also found the library helpful. They made use of the library's collection of newspaper and magazines which the library staff kept current. Teachers also took individual classes to the library for research projects, and acquaintance with general library procedure.

The librarian is aided by a group of student assistants. These pupils check books in and out, deliver notices to pupils concerning overdue books, and collect fees for the late books.

ACTIVITIES

STUDENT COUNCIL . . . A SOUND

The Student Council of any school invests in the welfare of its student body. It serves as the link between the student and the school administration. The Council also serves to promote understanding and an interest in school and civic affairs. It is here, in Council meeting, that good leaders are produced and student participation is encouraged.

The Council began its yearly activities with orientation services held for newcomers in the Williston family. Other activities that followed include a luncheon for faculty and administration, Awards Day and May King and Queen Contest, which are both annual Council projects.

Congratulations to Rosalyn Glaspie and Anita Haynes for their outstanding service in the Student Council this school year.

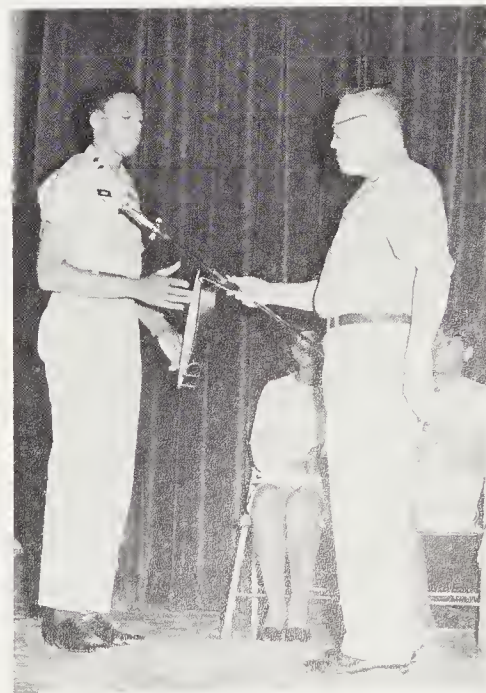

AWARDS DAY CEREMONIES

Near the end of each school year the Student Council sponsors an Awards Day program to give recognition to outstanding students in curriculum and special areas. Each year the program inspires the student body to strive even harder the following year in order to be eligible for next year's awards on Awards Day. Prizes were presented to deserving students by; left to right—J. Cooper, V. Brewington, B. Frost, H. Dorsey, C. Lowery, Maj. Raymond, G. Stokes, J. Irving, M. Cheek, and Mr. Newsome.

One acquires sound dividends when he invests in our National Honor Society. Here, investments are made in culture, knowledge and brotherhood founded on the four cardinal principles of the Society: character, scholarship, leadership, and service.

Induction into the society is held each year for juniors and semi-annually for seniors. “Coke sips” are held each semester for honor roll students.

Among this year’s activities is the installation program held each year spotlighted by an outstanding speaker.

To climax this year’s activities, the members of the National Honor Society adopted a small child.

The Crown and Scepter holds induction ceremonies each year for those qualified juniors. The induction exercises last one school week and are climaxed with a night of howling initiation. If an inductee pulls through this week he is able to wear his crown and to bear his scepter.

The Crown and Scepter Club has proved to be an outstanding investment in sound knowledge, willing service and good character.

In the past years, the Tri-Hi-Y has sent Christmas baskets to the needy and donated money to the Fannie Norwood Home. The money collected this year, however, is to be deposited in a welfare fund to help students and faculty members who may need aid due to some extreme difficulty.

The largest club activity is the Tri-Hi-Y "Psychedelic Trip" Talent Show which drew the biggest crowd yet. The show turned out to be a huge success.

The B.B. Leonard Tri-Hi-Y has truly served its school and community by entrusting sound investments in brotherhood and service to mankind.

The Glee Club is an excellent example of a small but rewarding investment in the development of a musical mind.

Their activities include appearances on television at Christmas time, performances throughout the city and program participation for faculty and student body. Each year the Glee Club, along with the Band, presents Spring concerts for the benefit of the school body. This year, the Glee Club featured Tom Jones, a local art instructor at Williston Jr. High on the organ.

Finally, to climax its yearly work, the Glee Club rendered music for both the Baccalaureate and the Commencement exercises.

INVESTMENTS IN THE FUTURE

FUTURE TEACHERS OF AMERICA CLUB

For those interested in the teaching profession, the Future Teachers of America provides worthwhile information about the various opportunities in the field of education. The club helps to enable the members to study the qualities, characteristics and requirements that are basically essential for successful teaching.

The Future Teachers of America Club has participated in the Educators Recognition Conference and the Shaw University Convention. Its members sponsored a tea for the retired teachers in our community.

FUTURE HOME- MAKERS CLUB

The purpose of the Future Homemakers Club is to acquaint our young ladies with the many responsibilities of homemaking in the future. These young women seek good advice on how to become the better future homemakers of America.

INVESTING IN MEDICINE

MEDICAL CAREERS

One can't possibly invest enough in brotherhood as those interested in healing others. The Medical Careers Club is an organization designed primarily to acquaint those young people, interested in medical careers for the future, with the many fields of medicine that are opened to them. They are encouraged to deposit huge sums of time, patience and interest to prepare them for the opportunities they will later encounter beyond high school.

This year's activities have included many dances sponsored to raise money for the annual club trip usually taken at the close of the school year.

ANNUAL STAFF—1968

A school year could hardly be complete without a record of its school activities, assemblies and the like. For this reason, a good annual staff is a basic necessity. Here you see them busily laying out all sections of the annual.

WORDS FROM THE WISE

Sports by their very nature are enjoyable, challenging, all absorbing, competitive and require a certain amount of skill and physical conditioning.

Sports participation and appreciation have become the American way of life. Of course we realize that exercise and active participation is beneficial to the individual and almost everyone regardless of age, amount of skill, or physical condition can find some sport or sports in which he can take part. There is not only physical activity but there is also educational or learning activity to go with it.

FEATURES

“To get a name can happen to few—it is one of the few things that cannot be bought. It is the free gift of mankind which must be deserved before it will be granted, and it is at last unwillingly bestowed”.

—Samuel Johnson

Outstanding features of the school year—Miss Williston Coronation, May King and Queen, etc. serve to illustrate a bit of the typical school life at Williston Senior High School. These happenings provided much of the humor and fun that made school life amusing and exciting. Memories of these events—beautiful or inspiring, amusing or hilarious—will linger long after other dates have been forgotten.

HOMECOMING—A NIGHT OF BEAUTY AND HONOR FOR MISS WILLISTON

Homecoming night—a night of royalty and beauty for both our Miss Williston and her court attendants. Our Queen and her court were escorted by the R.O.T.C. men who added much dignity and honor to the occasion. Here you see Miss Williston being crowned by our school principal, Mr. B. T. Washington. Standing beside her is her escort, Lt. Col. Charles Lowery.

Smiles of beauty and happiness are affixed to the faces of S. King (1st runner up), G. Stokes (2nd runner up), E. Shepard (Miss Williston) and B. London (3rd runner up). Colonel Lowery is seated at front.

Mixed smiles of delight charm J. Cooper, S. Davis, R. Owens, and Y. Johnson, the other court attendants. At front seated is Cadet McFarland and standing at the rear is Cadet Gilbert Henry.

MAY KING AND QUEEN CONTEST

The May King and Queen Contest is an annual profit of our Student Council body. Each year a boy and girl representative from each homeroom class vie for the title of May King and Queen. The homerooms sell candy, doughnuts, pop corn, raffle records, give dances, and the like in order to raise enough money for its candidates to win. The contest proves exciting right to the very end when both King and Queen are crowned.

This year's winners are representatives from Mrs. Murphy's 10th grade class. They are: Queen Miss Linda Mingo and King, Mr. Victor Hussey, 1st runner up, from Miss D. J. Harris's 11th grade homeroom class: Miss Loretta Harriott and Mr. Anthony Howard. 2nd runners up from Mr. I. E. Moore's class: Miss Norma Campbell and Mr. Willie L. Franks.

Prizes given to the winning contestants are:

- luggage—King and Queen
- record players—1st runner up
- swinger cameras—2nd runner up

SENIORS

The class of 1968 began their roles of distinction with the vigor that had marked the classes before them.

As their memorable year comes to an end, each Senior prepares for his long journey into life.

“Let us not look back in anger, nor forward in fear, but around in awareness.”

SENIORS UTILIZE

SENIORS

D. Sweat—Chaplain, Y. Johnson—Treas., K. Reid—President, Mrs. L. Williams—Advisor, C. Lowery—Vice Pres., B. Randall—Sec., A. Gaines—Assistant Secretary.

Now is the hour—our Seniors are ready to use the interest received on their investment. After a school year of much work and occasional fun, the seniors are ready to enter the world of work or higher education.

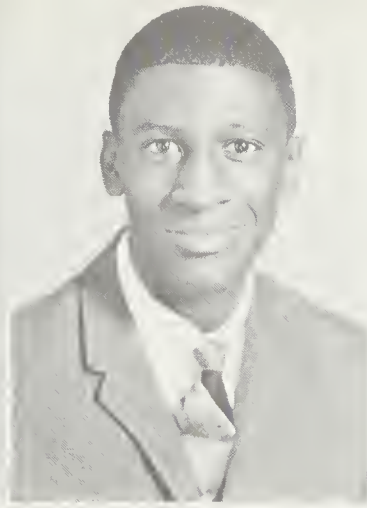

This school year has been a year of both sadness and excitement. It was sad because of the loss of a beloved Negro leader, Dr. Martin Luther King. To show our respects we marched peacefully and reverently in his honor. It was exciting because of the many activities in the life of a senior, from that very first day in September, 1967, to graduation in June, 1968.

May we remind the Seniors, as you leave high school, take all the things you've learned here with you, not so much to treasure, but to use as a part of the life just beyond the horizon. May you invest wisely in all the world has to offer.

Unyielding—never giving up.

This summarizes the attitude of all our Junior class members. This is the end of the second year for our juniors and the beginning of the last. Each junior boy and girl realizes how close he is to that glorious year and is motivated to strive even harder next year. This year has been exciting for them. The juniors have been very busy maintaining good grades to be eligible for both the National Honor Society and the Crown and Scepter Clubs. They climaxed their activities with the Junior-Senior Prom, which was the highlight of the year.

SOPHOMORES PREPARE

This is the end of the beginning year for our Sophomores. Orientation Day at Williston helped to get our young sophomores into the "swing of the Williston family." The sophomores have participated in almost every fact of senior high school life, from election of officers for both class and school to the many activities and assemblies that play a large part in the Williston program. Looking forward to even better years at Williston, they hold fast to all of its ideals with the determination to come out on top.

FINALE

Since the last words were written and the last pictures identified so the staff breathed a sigh of relief, Williston Senior High School has been closed. Students from this school will be absorbed by three other schools in the community.

The staff and sponsors hope that each person who receives this final copy of "The Willistonian" will cherish the many memories it holds and bid all members of the Williston family a fond farewell.
